Insights from Survey

Data

About the survey:

- Ran from mid-October to early November (10/14-11/09).
- Collected data on respondents' roles, satisfaction, task completion, and their perceptions of training, workload, culture, management, and other support systems.

About the responses:

- 21 respondents.
- No responses from life coaches.

Methods

We analyzed the survey data with R:

- Descriptive statistics (e.g., mean, standard deviation) summarize trends in performance metrics and resource adequacy by role.
- Analysis of variance reveals differences between roles.
- Correlation analysis assesses the relationship between resources and performance metrics.

Current State: Work Satisfaction

Staff generally feel fairly satisfied with their work.

Satisfaction differs within role:

- Care coordinators with 3-5 months of experience report lower satisfaction.
- Non-profit leadership interns report lower satisfaction in the same period.
- Lower satisfaction occurs later, at 6-11 months, among resource navigators.

Current State: Task Completion*

Non-profit leadership interns generally struggle with consistent task completion, though there is considerable variation within the role.

Therapists also have trouble completing tasks as expected on a regular basis.

Analysis of variance indicates that productivity only differs significantly between resource navigators and non-profit leadership interns.

*Defined as the frequency of completing tasks accurately and on time (1: Never, 2: Rarely, 3: Sometimes, 4: Often, 5: Always).

Half of the non-profit leadership team do not complete tasks as expected.

A substantial share of care coordinators and therapists show similar challenges.

Role	% Completing Tasks Below Expectation*
Non-profit leadership	50
Care coordinator	25
Therapist	25
Case manager	0

*Below expectation is defined as failure to complete tasks accurately and on time on a regular basis.

Current State: Client Load*

Here we focus on client-facing roles: care coordinators, case managers, and therapists.

Care coordinators typically manage far more clients than case managers or therapists.

Case managers and therapists have similar client loads.

*Client load is defined as the number of clients currently serving.

How Client Load Affects Task Completion

For both care coordinators and case managers, a heavier client load is linked to increased ability to complete tasks accurately and on time.

- Case managers show a weaker positive association.

Among therapists, managing more clients is associated with lower productivity.

Client-Facing Role	Correlation	P-Value
Care coordinator	0.86	0.14
Case manager	0.46	0.54
Therapist	-0.76	0.45

Resources: Training Adequacy*

Overall, staff feels most undertrained in client-focused areas, including:

- Community resources
- Established partnerships and referral networks
- Working with the client population

There is considerable variation within each area though.

*Adequacy is measured on a 1-5 scale (1: None, 2: Little, 3: Some, 4: Fair, 5: Plenty).

Looking into each role:

- Non-profit leadership interns report feeling undertrained across all areas.
- Care coordinators, therapists, and resource navigators feel their client-focused training is weaker than their training in other areas.
- Case managers report particularly limited technical training.

Role	Client-Focused	Technical	Role-Specific
Non-profit leadership	3.00	3.00	3.25
Resource navigator	3.43	4.14	4.07
Care coordinator	3.48	4.25	4.50
Therapist	3.94	4.25	4.38
Case manager	4.44	3.33	4.62

Resources: Internal Support

Overall, staff is least satisfied with communication and troubleshooting, especially regarding:

- Unclear expectations.
- Limited awareness of team progress.
- Delays in receiving support.
- Difficulty reaching colleagues when help is needed.

Detailed analyses can be found in the project files.

Looking into each role:

- Non-profit leadership interns feel they need better support with communication and troubleshooting.
- Therapists feel they need better support with troubleshooting.

Role	Communication	Culture	Troubleshooting	Growth
Non-profit leadership	3.62	4.00	3.62	4.62
Therapist	4.19	4.62	3.75	4.62
Care coordinator	4.31	4.69	4.19	4.25
Resource navigator	4.36	4.54	4.25	4.39
Case manager	4.88	4.94	4.62	4.81

*Experience is measured on a 1-5 scale (1: Poor, 2: Somewhat poor, 3: Acceptable, 4: Good, 5: Excellent).

How Resources Affect Task Completion

Better resources are linked to higher productivity:

- More adequate training is associated with more accurate and timely task completion.
- Better internal support has a similar positive effect.

These patterns hold across most roles*, with the strongest association seen among resource navigators.

Resource Type	Correlation	P-Value
Training	0.69	0.0006
Support	0.61	0.0036

*We do not have enough data to evaluate the correlation for non-profit leadership interns. More details can be found in the project files.

Recommendations

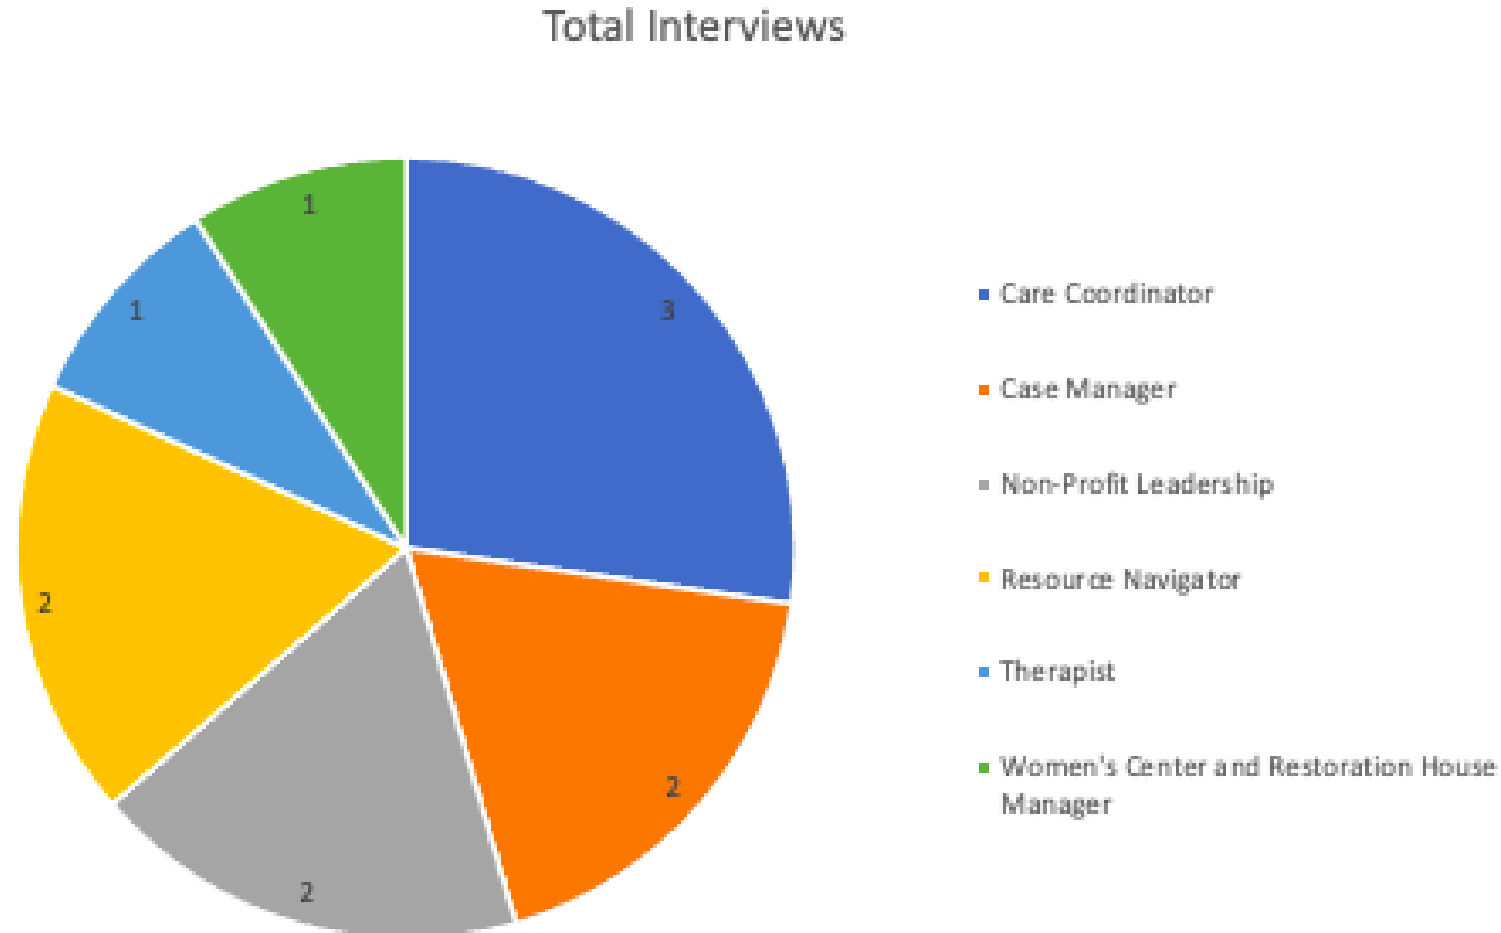

To help staff deliver client services more effectively, we recommend:

- Enhancing training:
 - Technical training for case managers.
 - Client-focused training for care coordinators and therapists.
 - More well-rounded training for non-profit leadership interns.
- Improving team communication:
 - Clearer expectations.
 - More streamlined sharing of information, decisions, and approvals.
 - Additionally, non-profit leadership interns and therapists would benefit from greater support when they encounter roadblocks.

Findings on Training

Training Needs Improvement

- 82% of interviews shared that training for their role needs improvement.

Training Continued

- All roles provided mixed feelings on trainings.
- All roles, except Case Managers, found parts of their training outdated, incomplete, lacking clarity, or needing improvement.

"I think that not all of my required responsibilities were outlined properly through the training."

- Care Coordinator 1

"I think the trainings could be updated or a little more like in depth, but um, I think there's a ton of resources if you know where to find them. But that's a whole another thing is like trying to access the SharePoint and the OneNote and all of that stuff."

-Care Coordinator 2

"[specific tasks related to clients]...those kinds of things we weren't really told. We kind of had to figure out on our own."

-Care Coordinator 3

Communication & Internal Support

- Universal positive responses to buddy system.
- All roles, except Women's Center and Restoration House Manager, expressed challenges with communication and internal support.
- Specific challenges with Google Voice, responses from higher leadership, client teams, *staff changes/schedules, role expectations, and responses/permission.

"Google Voice is my biggest enemy."

-Case Manager 1

"Kimmie is really hard to get a hold of... we need a department lead... someone easier to access."

-Care Coordinator

"Case managers aren't as quick to respond, especially when you're dealing with clients who have high needs. Getting support that way can be tough."

-Therapist

"Having somebody that's directly a mentor would be helpful. The current mentor is also a therapist [not available outside of department meetings]."

-Case Manager 2

Resources

- Positives: Buddy system, Teams, and training.
- Negatives: Outdated, unorganized, hard to navigate, lacks examples or templates.

"Without my buddy, I don't think I would have any idea what I was doing."

-Non-Profit Leadership

"The resource notebook is a little outdated."

-Resource Navigator

"There's been a lot of confusion or chaos with what my responsibilities are..."

-Care Coordinator

"There's too much information in too many different places, it needs to be condensed [Staff]... We need more community resources [clients] "

-Therapist

Satisfaction

- 1/3 of interviewees shared unprompted positive feedback
- Around 1/2 expressed liking cause and the work Thaddeus does.
- 1/3 of interviewees appreciate being asked to provide feedback

"Everybody's just so nice. Everybody's really friendly and approachable."

-Case Manager

"Everyone I've interacted with throughout this internship I like really love, and I've had only positive experiences here."

-Resource Navigator

"That's fantastic [project]. It's very important for an organization [to get feedback]."

-Therapist

"I was interested in Thaddeus because of the depth that the organization helps people."

-Care Coordinator

Satisfaction & Meetings

- Over 70% had positive things to say about department meetings.
- 5 out of 6 roles expressed negative feelings towards all staff meetings.

"I like the department meetings. I love that we have the client meetings, that set time to connect."

-Care Coordinator 1

"I personally do not enjoy doing the client presentation meetings. It just feels like a pointless meeting. We [RN] sit there silently."

-Resource Navigator

"Sometimes the weekly meetings are not always the most productive. The all staff meetings where we do ice breakers... I don't always think they're the best use of my time."

-Care Coordinator 2

"I think that all staff meeting monthly... weekly, is far too much. It's really taking hugely valuable time."

-Therapist
